

Confidence boost for young girls

THIS year's junior showgirl competition has been deemed a success with about 30 entrants on the day.

It was a tough decision for this year's showgirl entrants to judge the winners in the junior section on Sunday.

There were three age groups - five to seven-year-olds, eight to 10-year-olds and 11 to 15-year-olds. There was a winner and runner-up announced in each section.

The competition is a way for younger girls to be involved in the show and have fun while also boosting their confidence and character building.

RIGHT: At back, Clare Downes, Emily Bowden and Brittany Sweeney with in front, Emily Cosgrove, Shari Eggins and Marnie Shelton were this year's junior showgirl winners.

260409showD 141

And the 2009 Moree Show Committee Person of the Year award goes to...

DAVID Watts (pictured) has taken top honour to be named this year's Moree Show Committee Person of the year.

Mr Watts follows a line of hard working committee members committed to making the annual show the best they can.

President John Appleby said Mr Watts did an outstanding job as the ring master and keeping the show rolling.

He said it was a tough competition this year; the committee even had to complete a re-vote as the tally was too close between three or four members.

The decision is made by a secret vote from committee members.

The award was started by Brian Jones' family as a memorial to the years he was involved in the show.

