

Get your pets ready for the Moree Show

ERIN McAlicee happily admits to being a bit of a stage mum, and thinks her dog Indy will be pretty stiff competition at this year's Moree Show Pet Show.

"Indy's a big fan of Hugh Jackman and he likes performing so we're going for a bit of a broad-way theme this year," Miss McAlicee said.

"He doesn't really like wearing the tie though so perhaps he can take it off and go as a Manpower performer!"

Indy is hoping to take out Best Dressed Pet at this year's Pet Show, to be held at the 125th Annual Moree Show on Sunday, April 26 at 11.30am.

Meanwhile Alison Harding's 12-month-old, Chloe, has her eye on the Great Dog Race ribbon.

"She's very energetic and we have a bit of a training program going for her to prepare for the big race - she's getting very excited!"

Miss Harding said that while Chloe liked to practise by helping muster cattle on her parent's farm, her natural talents were more directed at chasing pigs.

"It's very interesting watching her muster cattle, hopefully she'll be more successful in the Great Dog Race!"

The Great Dog Race will be held after the pet show on Sunday, April 26, on the old cattle lawns near the wool pavilion.

Classes for the pet show include Best Dog, Best Cat, Best Rabbit, Best Bird, Smallest Pet, Biggest Pet, Most Talented Pet, Most Unusual Pet, Waggiest Tail, Best Dressed Pet, Best Other Types of Animals, Best Pet Under Six-Months-Old, Reserve Champion Pet In Show, and Champion Pet In Show.

The events are open to all pure-breds and crossbreds, as is the Great Dog Race.

And Miss McAlicee believes the event could be a great launching pad for any future celebrity pooches.

"Moree Show one day, Kleenex ads the next."

The 125th Annual Moree Show will be held Saturday afternoon, April 25 and Sunday, April 26.
